

Job Title: Master level student field placement at Evergreen Wellness

Reports to: Jennifer Keough and Megan Logan

Job Status: Temporary

Job Type: Intern Field Placement

General Description:

The Practicum Placement opportunity at Evergreen Wellness is tailored for Master's level students in mental health-related fields seeking clinical experience. This placement offers an immersive learning opportunity emphasizing hands-on clinical skills development under supervision within a supportive and dynamic healthcare environment.

Duties and Responsibilities:

Clinical Exposure:

- Engage in direct client interaction under supervision, conducting intakes, assessments, and providing therapeutic interventions in individual, group, or family settings.
- Develop and implement treatment plans, progress notes, and case documentation following clinic guidelines and ethical standards.

Observation and Supervision:

- Shadow licensed clinicians, observing various therapeutic modalities, techniques, and interventions used in clinical practice.
- Participate in case conferences, treatment team meetings, and clinical supervision sessions to enhance clinical knowledge and skills.

Client Care and Support:

- Provide support to clients through active listening, empathy, and assistance in coping skills development within the boundaries of supervised practice.
- Collaborate with the treatment team, contributing insights and recommendations for client care plans.

Learning and Development:

- Attend clinical training sessions, workshops, and seminars focused on enhancing therapeutic skills, clinical assessments, and evidence-based interventions.

- Engage in ongoing professional development opportunities designed to enrich clinical practice and ethical decision-making.

Qualifications and Skills:

Educational Background: Pursuing or holding a Master's degree in Counseling, Psychology, Social Work, or a mental health-related field.

Clinical Interest and Commitment: Demonstrate a strong interest in clinical practice, psychological assessment, and therapeutic interventions within a mental health setting. Show commitment, maturity, and ethical responsibility in providing therapeutic services under supervision.

Therapeutic and Communication Skills: Exhibit strong therapeutic skills, including empathy, active listening, rapport-building, and the ability to establish a therapeutic alliance with clients. Possess excellent communication skills, both verbal and written, essential for effective client interaction and documentation.

Professionalism and Ethical Practice: Uphold ethical standards, confidentiality, and professional conduct in all interactions, adhering to clinic policies and ethical guidelines. Display a high level of maturity, self-awareness, and openness to feedback and supervision.

Conclusion:

In conclusion, the Practicum Placement opportunity at Evergreen Wellness is designed for Master's level students seeking immersive clinical experience and skill development within a mental health setting. This placement emphasizes hands-on clinical practice, supervised client interaction, and professional development opportunities aimed at enhancing therapeutic skills and fostering ethical clinical practice.
